Overview

These scams start with an unexpected phone call, message on social, or even an in-person visit. The so-called official offers you an “energy audit” to reduce your utility costs. How do you identify a solar panel company to avoid scams?

These tactics may include persistent calls, scare tactics, door-to-door visits, or making unfounded claims about solar benefits. Companies employing such methods prioritize sales over delivering quality service. These are the red flags to identify solar panel companies to avoid scams. Is going solar a scam?

It’s likely a scam. While there are some government-funded solar programs for households that qualify, “going solar” isn’t free. Honest businesses will tell you exactly how much it’ll cost to get and install solar panels. Here’s how to steer clear of the scams: Do some research.

Are solar panel scams common in Florida and California?

Solar panel scams in Florida and California are quite common, as they are in any region where solar energy is popular and incentives are provided. Scammers take advantage of people’s limited knowledge about solar systems, providing misleading information that makes it hard for victims to recognize the scam.

Are free solar panels a scam?

Remind prospective customers that while tax credits, rebates, and incentives might be available for solar purchasers who qualify, offers for “free” or “no cost” solar panels are scams. Comply with the law: old and new. Reputable companies know the importance of being honest about what they’re offering – and how much it costs.

Are solar reselling models a scam?

Unfortunately, as the popularity of solar energy increases, so does the number of solar scams. Reselling models are among these scams that target homeowners. Be cautious of finance scams and false advertising as well.

Are 'fake' solar companies a scam?

Beware of any company asking you to make a big deposit before they have completed their installation. This is one of the most common ways 'fake' solar companies have targeted consumers - whereby they take a hefty deposit and then never turn up to carry out the installation. This is common solar scam.
