

Limited liability company vs sole proprietorship

Overview

In Brief: A Sole Proprietorship is a simple and low-compliance business structure with unlimited liability, suitable for small and less risky ventures. A Limited Company is a separate legal entity offering limited liability, higher credibility, and is ideal for small to medium-sized businesses with growth aspirations. What is the difference between a sole proprietorship and an LLC?

Sole proprietorships and limited liability companies (LLC) are two of the most common business structures for individuals and small businesses. A sole proprietorship is the simplest and requires minimal paperwork. An LLC requires upfront paperwork and costs but could provide your business long-term benefits that make the investment worth it.

Should you choose a limited liability company or a sole proprietorship?

Choosing a business entity structure for your company is one of the most important decisions you'll make as a small-business owner. And deciding between a limited liability company (LLC) or a sole proprietorship can have consequences, especially when it comes to paying taxes, filing for bankruptcy or responding to business lawsuits.

What is a limited liability company (LLC)?

A limited liability company (LLC) is a step up from a sole proprietorship in terms of complexity. An LLC can have a single owner or multiple owners, and it affords them legal protections that a sole proprietorship does not (hence "limited liability"). LLCs with just one owner are sometimes referred to as single-member LLCs.

What is the difference between a single-member LLC and a sole proprietorship?

A single-member LLC and a sole proprietorship resemble each other in terms of tax treatment. Both are pass-through entities, which means that the business itself doesn't pay income taxes. Instead business income is passed down to the owner.

Should I open an LLC instead of a sole proprietorship?

There are a few reasons to open up an LLC instead of operating as a sole proprietorship: In summary, setting up an LLC could position you for growth and protect you from liability.

Should you choose a sole proprietorship or an LLC?

Legal protection and potential tax advantages are two big factors to consider when choosing between a sole proprietorship and an LLC. What Is a Sole Proprietorship?

A sole proprietorship is an unincorporated business that's owned by the individual running it.
