Overview

MCS certification is a mark of quality that guarantees that the solar panels and installation meet the necessary standards for performance, safety, and efficiency. What is the MCS certificate for solar panels?

The Microgeneration Certification Scheme (MCS) is a government-backed UK initiative that was set up in 2007 to make sure small-scale renewable energy installations, like solar panels and heat pumps, meet universal quality standards.

Do solar panels need a Microgeneration Certification Scheme (MCS) certificate?

Although it's not strictly required for your solar panels to have a Microgeneration Certification Scheme (MCS) certificate, it's highly recommended. Government data shows the MCS has certified over a million installations since its launch in 2007 and has around 2,000 registered installers.

Does MCS install solar panels?

MCS has a list of approved modules, the solar panels must be on this list. No bodging! All parts of the solar install must be fit for purpose. View the MCS installers directory. Solar Fast's number is NAP-34003. Is MCS certification a requirement for solar panel installation?

What does MCS stand for in solar panels?

If you've already started researching solar panels, you will have seen the acronym 'MCS' floating around, which stands for the Microgeneration Certification Scheme. This is a key tool in helping homeowners receive top-quality care when buying solar panels - and we're here to clear up any confusion about the scheme.

Are solar panels MCS accredited?

Unlike the Gas Safe Register, solar panel installers and suppliers are not required by law to be MCS accredited. Instead, the scheme rewards suppliers, installers, and products with a certificate if they meet a certain standard - reassuring customers that the product and service they're investing in will be of a good quality.

Do solar panels need MCS or flexi-Orb certification?

It's not strictly mandatory for your solar panels to come with MCS or Flexi-Orb certification, but it's highly recommended, especially if you want to take advantage of certain financial incentives.
