What is photovoltaic poverty alleviation (PVPA)?

Photovoltaic Poverty Alleviation (PVPA) projects, which utilize the subsidies and income from PV power to alleviate poverty in rural areas, are part of a comprehensive energy policy innovation in China. It is expected that the projects will deploy at least 10 GW PV and benefit more than two million poor households in total by 2020.

What are China's photovoltaic poverty alleviation projects?

China's photovoltaic poverty alleviation projects (PPAPs) aim to help alleviate poverty by using the new energy power generation. In recent years, the PPAPs have flourished with the strong support of the Chinese government, becoming an integral strategy for the support of rural industries.

Can solar photovoltaic projects help alleviate poverty in rural areas?

Nature Communications 11, Article number: 1969 (2020) Cite this article Since 2013, China has implemented a large-scale initiative to systematically deploy solar photovoltaic (PV) projects to alleviate poverty in rural areas.

Can solar PV reduce poverty?

Solar PV and poverty alleviation Solar energy is considered to be one of the most sustainable and renewable sources of energy. Some scholars have made preliminary explorations on the application of solar PV for poverty reduction in the rest of the world.

Can photovoltaic power stations reduce poverty?

First, as one of the most efficient poverty alleviation strategies, village power stations occupy a small amount of space and involve little investment compared with other modes, which is possible to be promoted for the construction in the photovoltaic poverty alleviation projects.

Does PV improve poverty alleviation?

The PV poverty alleviation effect is stronger in poorer regions, particularly in Eastern China. Our results are robust to alternative specifications and variable definitions. We propose several policy recommendations to sustain progress in China's efforts to deploy PV for poverty alleviation.
